

THE BALLINCOLLIG PARISHIONER

Sunday 22-March-2015

Fifth Sunday of Lent

Jesus' Hour was approaching, the Hour which He would have to face alone, the Hour of his final act of obedience to the Father. Because of that Hour Jesus is no longer alone, He draws all to himself. If we can die with him we too will not be alone for ever.

150 Years

The Mysteries of Life

There are many mysteries in life; suffering is one of them, evil is another: death is a third. Life all humans Jesus came face to face with all these in his life on earth. Jesus did not shirk them; he didn't run or avoid them. He didn't give any explanation either; there are no easy answers to these mysteries. Instead Jesus faced them and conquered them. We live in the confidence that evil and sin, pain and suffering, death and mortality have all lost their power, all conquered by the love of Christ who gave himself up to death for us.

Today in the gospel we see Christ face to face with the enormity of what lies ahead. He knows that the ordeal will lead to God's glory being revealed, but to be face to face with the ordeals that he would endure would be enough to shake anyone. The human side of Jesus is clear to us as he says "my soul is troubled" and cries out "what shall I say: Father save me from this hour". This is someone we can identify with, a situation that we know well, for we know that life is hard and lands us in situations that we would rather not be, when there is no escape from the darkness that surrounds. The image of the grain of wheat indicates the pattern that life must follow, "unless the grain of wheat dies, it remains a single grain, but if it dies it yields a rich harvest." The pain of dying - - dying to self, dying to sin, the pain of the physical death of someone close to us and eventually our own - all of this is part of our experience of life.

The call that is given to follow Christ is to follow him in glorious days and also to follow him in suffering, to climb Calvary with him to believe that we too must lose our lives, give them up to follow him. "To whom shall we go you have the message of Eternal life".

George O'Mahony

Reflection

We can be thankful to the prophet Jeremiah for what he has contributed to the understanding of God, which developed over the centuries of the Hebrew Scriptures. The God of the earlier covenant on Mount Sinai differs from the God of the new covenant in Jeremiah in one crucial aspect. God's response to Israel's failure to keep the first covenant was punishment. By way of contrast, the God of the New Covenant will be known as a God who will forgive their iniquity and never call their sin to mind.

Summer Time begins next weekend, all clocks / timing devices must go forward by one hour at 01:00 am on Sunday morning March 29th

PRAYERS OF THE FAITHFUL

Priest

Jesus turned to the Father in his hour of need. Let us now turn to God with all our needs.

Reader

For Christians: that they may not be afraid to suffer in living the Gospel.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For those who hold positions of responsibility: that they may set aside personal ambition and work unselfishly for the good of others.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For the sick and suffering: that they may unite their sufferings to the sufferings of Christ.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For ourselves: that in facing our own trials we may draw strength from the example of others.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

We pray for our parish; that we may be able to assist in promoting the gospel.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For a moment, we remember in silence our own particular needs.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

Priest

All powerful God, our source of life, you know our weakness. May we reach out with joy to grasp your hand, and so walk more readily in your ways. We make this prayer through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

A pure heart create for me, O God.

THE SUNDAY READINGS

First Reading: Jeremiah 31: 31-34
 The prophet foretells the day when a new covenant will be made between God and man. Christ will be the new High Priest. Before him all men will be equal and the different religious beliefs will one day disappear, as all men will come to know the one true God.

Second Reading: Hebrews 5: 7-9
 Gethsemane rather than Calvary is the scene here. Christ is presented in his weakness. Nowhere was Jesus more evidently one of our weak human selves than in the garden of Gethsemane where he suffered his agony of anticipation. Being innocent he could not offer sacrifice for his own sins like the High Priests in the Old Testament but he could pray out of the anguish of mortal weakness which he took on for our salvation.

Gospel: John 12: 20-30
 The grain of wheat has life in it but that does not germinate into the production of other living grains unless it is subject to death and burial in the ground. Martyrdom is the highest act of self-denial. The cross frightens us, but it also frightened Jesus. The vivid image of a cruel death brought to Jesus a tremor of fear. Crucified, he will draw all people, without distinction of race, to himself.

Daffodil Day

This event is the biggest and longest running fundraising day for the Irish Cancer Society, Ireland's national cancer charity. On Daffodil Day thousands of volunteers around Ireland sell daffodil pins and flowers (on streets, in businesses, homes and shopping centres) to raise money for the Society's free, nationwide services for those with, and affected by, cancer in Ireland. In 2010 Dell Ireland became the Irish Cancer Society's lead partner for Daffodil until the end of 2015. The Society's 28th Daffodil Day is on Friday March 27th 2015. On Daffodil Day we won't give up until cancer does. We want everyone to get involved in Daffodil Day. Here is how you can support Daffodil Day 2015:

- You can sell daffodils for a few hours on Daffodil Day.
- Organise a Daffodil Day event in your area.
- Bring Daffodil Day to your business or club with a box of pins.
- Make a donation online or by phone, CallSave 1850 60 60 60
- Or online at <http://www.cancer.ie/get-involved/fundraise/how-to-donate>

The Bible should fill the memory, rule the heart, and guide the feet. The Bible is meant not to inform, but to transform. Men do not reject the Bible because it contradicts itself but because it contradicts them.

Children's Corner

A Prayer to say...

Father God, thank you for the new life that Jesus brings. Help us to be like Jesus and put other people first. Amen.

In the Gospel today...

Jesus knew that he was going to suffer. He reminded his friends that when a grain of wheat dies it goes into the ground and produces new grains. Jesus wanted everything he did to be for God. He prayed to God, his Father. Then a voice spoke from heaven. The people who heard the voice thought it was thunder, or an angel.

Trocaire Lenten Campaign 2015

There is a very short parable in today's Gospel describing a seed which has fallen on the ground and eventually dies. It may remain a single seed or it may yield a rich harvest. This concept of losing what one has to give way to something new and life-giving is frightening for some. We get so attached and lifestyle changes are tough. In this passage Jesus knows that his hour has come; this is his crisis moment. But Jesus' time of anguish moves from a cry of 'save me' to one of glorifying God 'let it be as You not I would have it'. We are at an 'hour' in terms of climate justice. This is the time where big decisions and commitments must be made and there is no other option but to opt for life, to listen to God's will, not ours. The priorities of wealthy nations must change, must turn outward and take risks if we are all to experience peace and security. We remember the horrendous storms which battered Ireland last year and which will continue to do so as our climates changes. We are called to be stewards of the earth: 'Everything has been entrusted to our protection, and all of us are responsible for it' (Pope Francis). For us to be true stewards means campaigning for legislation at national level and different choices at a personal level.

'I would like to ask all those who have positions of responsibility in economic, political and social life, and all men and women of goodwill: Let us be protectors of creation, protectors of God's plan inscribed in nature, protectors of one another and of the environment.' Pope Francis.
