Seventh Sunday In Ordinary Time

The Lord is Compassion and Love.

We cannot celebrate the Lord of love without resolving to be more like him; for we are built into him like stones into a Temple erected to give glory to God. We belong to him.

Perfect

I begin by offering my sympathy to Fr George and his family on the occasion of the death of his Mum Kitty RIP.

On behalf of people from the parish, the community and beyond I extend prayers, thoughts and support. We pray to the Lord for Kitty's repose and God Spirit of comfort and light for the bereaved.

Returning to the relatively lesser task of this week's reflection we continue to hear from THE SERMON. Jesus offers His manifesto to those who follow Him as He said to his disciples:

'Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you.'

During the last few days of January I was fortunate to get a short few days on the east coast. As schools were closed this week for mid-term some of you will have managed to use the break to rest, to get away, to study, to pursue interests in sport and other things.

While I was away myself I noticed many of the staff used the word perfect. It seemed that the word Perfect was a word that reflected the Ethos or goal of the place. As I completed my evaluation and comments I tended to agree that many aspects of my stay deserved the word PERFECT.

What stands out for me every time I hear these particular verses of St Matthew's Gospel is the final sentence

"You must therefore be perfect as your heavenly Father is perfect."

To focus too much on the Ideal is a pity because being perfect is very difficult if not impossible.

I admit that I am an organized person and I like order. Some might say too much so. I used to be worse. I used to be a perfectionist at all levels of life. I strived for perfection in work, in relationship, in prayer, in the spiritual life, in every aspect of life. But I have with the experience of life that perfection is just about impossible. Rather what is most important is our effort at every level of life is to strive to be and do our best. It is not black and white, in or out. Thankfully, it has been my experience in life, to know and experience God's perfect love, acceptance, tolerance, understanding and even humour mirrored in others.

As his disciple, follower, minister, child, striving towards He who is perfect is the challenge. A call to holiness, the spiritual, the divine is a call to share in a life, in and through God's grace, that allows us in our imperfections and limitations to forgive "our enemies"; to strive to avoid the popular call to revenge.

The ethos of our call is our decision to strive for the Holy, and truly imitate the Model of the Master and Teacher.

Nobody and nothing is perfect.

Dave O'Connell

PRAYERS OF THE FAITHFUL

Priest

We accept that together we are the temple of God, and we make our common prayer to the God who crowns our lives with love and compassion.

Reader

For peace and harmony among Christians of different traditions.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

For peace and harmony in countries where the population is made up of different religions and ethnic groups.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

For the healing of relationships that are strained or that have gone sour.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

For those who have hurt us in any way, and whom we find hard to love.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

For families; that husbands and wives may be devoted to each other and to their children.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

For a moment, we remember in silence our own particular needs.

Lord, Hear us,

Lord, graciously hear us.

Priest

Merciful God, fill our hearts with your love. Give us the grace to rise above our human weakness, and keep us faithful in loving you and one another. We make this prayer through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Reflection for Parents

Jesus tells us how to resolve our problems using love instead of violence. When someone hurts us, it is tempting to hurt them right back; but Jesus gives us another plan. It is a plan that is as unusual for our time as it was for the people of Jesus' time. He said to love the person who hurts us. Love our enemies. We know our friends and understand them. Sometimes it is because we know them that we accept some of the odd or annoying things they do. Jesus says everyone can love and forgive a friend. That part's easy. It is loving our enemy that may be the challenge. Nearly every world religion has a message of this sort . . . now if we could all just live it!

THE SUNDAY READINGS

First Reading: Leviticus 19:1-2, 17-18
 The best way to love yourself is by imitating God's holiness. And begin by avoiding sin, especially the hatred which leads to bearing grudges and seeking revenge. It is not in anyone's interest to bottle things up inside. Instead be up front with those who have offended you in order to clear the air. Do not let the sun go down on your anger.

Second Reading: 1 Corinthians 3:16-23
 Human wisdom often seems to suggest that our value depends on what we own. The more belongings we have the more people look up to us. But God's wisdom turns this pattern on its head. Our dignity stems from our belonging to Christ, who in turn belongs to his Father. The Spirit is God's mark of ownership over us. We are no ordinary dwelling place, but temples of the Spirit.

Gospel Reading: Matthew 5:38-48
 One disadvantage of a legalistic view of morality is that it can lead to minimalism, an attitude represented by the question, 'How far can I go before I commit sin?' The scribes thought that if they followed certain rules exactly they could claim a right to God's reward. But the call to 'be perfect as God is perfect' is a reminder of the open ended nature of morality. There is always an extra mile to go for others. The saintly person is always eager to go beyond the call of duty. We are to follow the example of the Good Samaritan who not only saved a man's life but was willing to pay the innkeeper to look after him. Jesus goes beyond duty in praying for his persecutor.

The Joy of the Gospel...
 What is I saying to us today?

Interested in becoming a Home Sharer?

We need people like you to share your time and provide short breaks to a child or adult with an intellectual disability involving them in everyday activities with your family at your home. Why not give a child time away from their family in your home, a new environment where you give them fun, independence, the chance to meet new people and build on their social skills. Their parents can recharge their batteries, while all the time knowing their child is with someone they can trust.

Experience is not necessary as training, support and an allowance are provided. If you are interested in making a real difference to the life of a person with an intellectual disability and their family, please contact Clare or Maria at: 086-0449377 or email homesharecork@bocss.org for more information
